

Services for People who are Deaf

Mental Health Connecticut (MHC) offers services in West Hartford for people who are deaf and may have a mental health condition. These services are designed to integrate people who are deaf in their surrounding community to promote successful independent living, the development of natural supports, and engagement in work and social activities. Services include:

- Residential Services

A full continuum of housing services and supports serving people who are deaf and have a mental health condition.

This includes Robinson House, which is one of the few 24/7 supervised residential programs in the country offering rehabilitative and community integration services.

- Supported Employment

Services and supports designed to engage people with mental health conditions who are deaf in competitive employment in the community. Participants receive assistance with resume writing, interview coaching, and job skills development and training.

- Deaf Rec

A social club that brings people who are deaf from all walks of life together to engage in community-based, recreational activities, such as visiting local museums, going bowling, eating at restaurants, and attending local fairs and festivals. While these types of activities may seem mundane to most people, people who are deaf and who may be affected by a mental health condition may not have the same opportunities to experience these activities. Deaf Rec is designed to make participation in these activities more enjoyable for Deaf community members.
